Sunday Reflection

31st Sunday in Ordinary Time – Year B

To love another...

Today's Gospel takes us to the heart of the life of Jesus – the life he wants us to follow closely – to love God and to love our neighbour. It is the prayer of every faithful Jewish person known as the Shema which they recite daily.

It is easy to say the words, but sometimes not so easy to live. Our neighbour is every other person, friend or stranger, old or young, rich or poor, no matter how different they are from us, they too are a beloved child of God and deserve nothing less than our love. In the words of Victor Hugo and spoken by Jean Valjean at the end of Les Miserables "to love another is to touch the face of God". Only when we truly give love to every other person, whether we like them or not, will we come close to God and to living life to the full.
